Fernie Awarded Pass Bonspiel In 1946; Maffoli Elected Association President; A. Fraser Secretary

Well Balanced Program Plus Turkey Supper Enjoyed by 110 Curlers; Tribute Paid Three Late Curlers; New Rink Received High Praise.

Annual Crows' Nest Pass Curling Association banquet was held in the IOOF hall on Monday evening, with approximately 110 curlers and guests in attendance. Flags of many Allied nations hung above the head table in tribute to the curlers of many nationalities and whose countries were locked in the world conflict.

L. S. Richards, manager of the Grand Union hotel and who catered to the banquet, served a most delicious meal of roast turkey with all the trimmings plus a number of other delicacies, even to the association's 32nd birthday cake, which President A. Dow had the pleasure of cutting.

Following the supper President Dow proposed the toast to "The King."

A minute's silence was observed in memory of three departed curlers during 1944, namely E. K. Stewart, of Fernie; Howard C. McBurney and Albert P. Short, of Coleman. Lance Morgan, of Blairmore, paid tribute to the three late curlers. He stated that he had taken a keen interest in sport for sports' sake, and a most wonderful interest in curling. They had left an example for the curlers in their sportsmanship.

J. J. McIntyre, of Coleman, paid tribute to Coleman curlers on their fine effort in constructing the new arena. He stated that when he first became acquainted with the plans, he had admired the spirit of the promoters, but had had misgivings that it could be built on a voluntary labor basis. All Coleman was proud of its curling rink, proud of the endurance of the men who had put the project over. He told his listeners that while he had expected and had been prepared to lend a helping hand, the curlers had asked very little indeed from his company. He expressed his personal appreciation and that of Lorne Campbell, as well as that of his companies, to the Coleman curlers for their very fine achievement in building the new rink and wished members of the association many years in which to enjoy curling in the new Coleman arena.

Wm. Kerr, of Bellevue, speaking on behalf of the association, stated that the association appreciated the new rink and that it was wonderful for the association that Coleman had dug in. It was without doubt the best rink in the association. Now that Coleman were in there he hoped that it would result in increased entries in the bonspiels of the future.

Walter Greenway, of Lethbridge, also spoke on behalf of the association. He told of the early years when Cranbrook to Taber composed the C. N. P. Curling Association. During the years, however, many had dropped out till today only the immediate Pass towns and Fernie held the fort. He had been attending the Pass 'spiels with few exceptions since 1921 and he thought that he would still be coming back in future 'spiels. He extended an invitation to Pass rinks to take part in the Shirt-Sleeve bonspiel at Lethbridge in the near future. He expressed the appreciation of "outside" curlers to Coleman for its new rink. The rink was wonderful and had a very good lighting system. He thanked Coleman for its hospitality and hoped to come back again.

Lethbridge curlers, Lucia and McKittick, expressed their appreciation of Coleman hospitality and expressed the hope that they would be able to attend the Pass bonspiels often in the future.

Fernie, through Tom Baker, extended an invitation to the association to hold the next bonspiel at Fernie. The invitation was accepted unanimously. Louis Maffoli, of Fernie, was elected president for the ensuing year and Telford Dicks, also of Fernie, was elected vice-president.

In his president's address, Andy Dow stated that time had not allowed Coleman to properly finish the rink, but it was planned to completely finish it next year. He voiced his dissatisfaction with the quality of the prize prizes during the past few years and advocated that better prizes be secured. Little debate ensued on the topic and the matter was let drop.

A very fine entertainment program had been arranged and was enjoyed by all. Bert Bond and Tom Hill provided piano and violin music during the supper, while Miss Peggy McDonald sang three songs, Mr. McKittick, of Lethbridge, a Scottish song, and Coleman players enhanced their reputation by presenting a humorous skit which had the audience often in uncontrolled laughter.

FORMER RESCUE STATION SUPERINTENDENT PASSES

Ed. Royle, for many years in charge of the Pass mine rescue station and who retired but a few years ago, passed away at Blairmore on Wednesday evening rather suddenly. He was in his seventy-first year and is survived by his wife, one daughter and two sons. Funeral services will be held at St. Luke's Anglican church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Sophia Romanko To Sing Here January 29

Local Orchestra and Folk Dancers to be Featured.

Music lovers will have an opportunity to hear Sophia Romanko on her first visit to Southern Alberta. She will be featured in a program entitled "An Evening of Ukrainian and Russian Songs," to be held in Coleman Jan. 29. At this concert she will be assisted by local talent of the Ukrainian Association, all attired in their traditional national costumes, and other prominent musicians. This will be one of a series of 20 concerts to be given throughout Western Canada.

Sophia Romanko, celebrated Toronto soprano, was born in the village of Perhinsko (Western Ukraine) at the foothills of the Carpathian Mountains, about fifteen miles west of the Tartar Pass. Her birthplace, which already has been liberated by the Red Army, has been a battlefield in both world wars. Born during the thunder of the roaring guns of the last Great War, she was brought to Canada soon after the armistice. She is of Ukrainian parentage.

Sophia Romanko received her musical education at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, where she was awarded a scholarship by Sir Ernest MacMillan. She is now recognized to be the outstanding exponent of Russian and Ukrainian folk song in Canada. Her desire is to advance the cultural pursuits of her people, and to blend them into the general musical life of Canada.

Because of her inborn Slavic ability, and her extensive knowledge of the Ukrainian and Russian languages, she was engaged to sing on a CBC and NBC program entitled "Along Gypsy Trails." She is at the present time featured in the CBC program "Songs From the Volga."

She has been featured in programs with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Sir Ernest MacMillan, and with the Toronto Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Victor Kolar.

When the Archbishop of York, the Most Reverend Cyril Foster Garbett, spoke in Varsity arena in Toronto, Sophia Romanko was invited to represent, through song, the cultural heritage of her native country.

English War Bride Arrives In Coleman

Mrs. Marjorie Hoyle Thrilled With New Surroundings; Praises Work of Red Cross and Canadian Legion Services In Looking After Interests of British Brides.

The first British bride to reach Coleman arrived here on Friday evening in the person of Mrs. Marjorie Hoyle, from Bolton, Lancashire. It is three years ago Dec. 29 when she married Pte. Leonard Hoyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hoyle, in England.

Mrs. Hoyle left for Canada on the day of her third wedding anniversary and had a perfectly lovely trip across the Atlantic. She describes her train ride to the west as quite enjoyable, although at times the temperature in the coaches became almost unbearable.

High praise was given ladies of the Red Cross and Canadian Legion auxiliaries for their warm hearted greetings and kindnesses shown to the British war brides on the trip across Canada.

She considers Canadians well off as regards food rationing, describing the English rationing much more rigid than that in effect here. Prices of various articles are also much cheaper in Canada, shoes being one of the items most noticeable.

This week and she went skating for the first time in her life and enjoyed the experience greatly.

Hillcrest also welcomed a war widow in the person of Mrs. Eileen Gardiner, who married the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Gardiner, in England last April. She arrived from Sussex. Her husband, Gunner Andrew Gardiner, was reported killed in action in France on Aug. 26.

32nd Annual Curling Association Bonspiel Concluded Early Thursday Morning; Beal Big Winner

Beal, of Bellevue Club, Won Grand Aggregate; Coleman Failed in Two Finals.

The 32nd annual bonspiel of the Crows' Nest Pass Curling Association came to a successful conclusion at 1.30 this morning when Ralph Nunn, skipping the Fisher rink, threw his last rock to defeat the Rippon rink in an extra end in the final of the Lethbridge Brewery.

With the exception of sticky ice which prevailed during the entire four days of the 'spiel, the big bonspiel was most successful.

There were twenty-one rinks entered, this being several more than the average over the past number of years. Those entered were: Lethbridge: Greenway, McKittick and Lucia.

Bellevue: W. Kerr, Sicoff, Beal and Duncan.

Blairmore: Oliver, Maniquet, Morgan and Thornton.

Coleman: Fraser, Rippon, Ledieu, J. Kerr, Emmerson, D'Appolonia and Antle.

Fernie: Baker and Maffoli.

A number of rinks which would have been powerful on keen ice were left by the wayside when the heavy ice was experienced. A number of very close games were experienced and four or five extra ends were seen played to decide several games.

The Beal rink, along with its clubmate, Fisher, of Bellevue, dominated the 'spiel, with eleven and ten wins respectively. Beal winning two competitions, Grand Challenge and West Canadian. Fisher came through to win the Lethbridge Brewery after dropping the Trites-Wood to Oliver, of Blairmore.

TRITES-WOOD—

Semi-finals: Fisher beat Greenway; Oliver beat Ledieu. Final: Oliver beat Fisher.

LETHBRIDGE BREWERY—

Semi-finals: Rippon beat Fraser; Fisher beat Maniquet. Final: Fisher beat Rippon, extra end.

GRAND CHALLENGE—

Semi-finals: J. Kerr beat Sicoff; Beal beat Maffoli. Final: Beal beat Kerr.

WEST CANADIAN—

Semi-finals: Baker beat Thornton; Beal beat Greenway. Final: Beal beat Baker.

Preparing For Demobilization

THE MAIN TASK OF PROVIDING for the rehabilitation of service men and women will come when the war is ended, and general demobilization commences. Many, however, have already been discharged for various reasons, and this number is increasing as the duration of the war lengthens, and as service personnel suffering from disabilities are returned to civilian life. In Canada there are many provisions in effect for those who wish to take advantage of assistance in establishing themselves in some trade or profession. A number of Canadian schools and colleges are now offering special courses for the benefit of ex-service men and women who wish to resume studies interrupted by their enlistment, or to take up new courses at this time.

Britain Plans More Training

In Great Britain the difficult problems resulting from a transition to peacetime conditions after nearly years of war are also anticipated by the authorities. There, as in Canada, the importance of academic or vocational training in fitting members of the armed forces to take civilian positions after the war is recognized. In this connection an interesting announcement was made recently by the British War Office, outlining a plan under which all members of the United Kingdom forces must undertake studies while still in the services. Those who joined up before being trained for any career will be given courses along any lines which they may choose, while those who have been away from their work for many years, will be given refresher courses. The training will be compulsory and will involve six to eight hours of study a week. Advanced students will be permitted to write examinations for university entrance, the civil service or various professions.

Many Courses Are Offered

A great deal of time and thought has gone into the preparation of this plan, and a vast organization has been set up to administer it. The present Army Educational Corps is being expanded, and officers are receiving special training. In addition, civil education authorities are taking an active part, and each branch of study is being supervised by an authority in that field. In addition to the teaching facilities which are being provided, over a million text books have been ordered, and large numbers of films, tools and other equipment are being assembled. The courses offered are grouped under six main headings: Technology, which includes all types of technical courses; General Science, Domestic Science, Sociology, Arts and Crafts, Commerce and the Professions. At the conclusion of the last war, the difficulties encountered by service men after their discharge were often numerous, and it is encouraging to know that there is a wide-spread interest in improving conditions for veterans of the present war.

German Plans

Said To Be Preparing For The Camouflage Of War Criminals

Reports from the liberated areas of Slovakia state that the Germans are preparing for the "camouflage" of war criminals on a large scale, according to Czechoslovak information sources.

Persons in the German forces who are thought likely to be on the Allied lists of war criminals are transferred from their units, supplied with new documents bearing a new name and sent to quite different posts. Their next of kin are then informed that they have been killed in action.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—I live in an area where evaporated milk is rationed. I want to renew my ration card by mail, and I would like to know whether I have to send in both the stub of the card and any ration book?

A—Yes, you do. Both are required because a notation has to be made on ration book 5 that an evaporated milk card has been issued. If you were applying in person at your Local Ration Board for renewal of your evaporated milk ration card, you would have to take along your ration book 5.

Q—I understand schools may obtain rationed commodities to serve hot lunches to children who cannot go home at noon. Our school would like to serve cocoa only. May we get sugar for that?

A—Yes, you may, by the school principal or one of the teachers applying to your nearest Branch of the Ration Administration and stating the number of children to whom you wish to serve cocoa.

Q—I was transferred from the R.C.A.F. to the Reserve, but the R.C.A.F. station would not issue me a ration card. I will be eating at home what should I do about obtaining a ration card?

A—The station is quite right in refusing to issue a ration card to you as you are not entitled to one but rather to a civilian ration book which you may obtain from a Local Ration Board or branch of the Ration Administration, by presenting your release certificate certifying to your discharge.

Q—There are only two in our family and we often have a hard time making our sugar ration stretch over the month. Is there any chance that the ration might be increased in the New Year?

A—No. In fact, sugar for industrial users in Canada will be reduced from 80 to 70 per cent, early in 1945. We sometimes forget the great amount of sugar that must go into explosives. For instance, the explosive to fill five 16-inch shells requires as much sugar as an acre of the finest Cuban sugar land can produce.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Papers Dated Ahead

Nazi Spies Caught In United States Were Well-Equipped

Two German spies, caught by the federal bureau of investigation after they were landed on the coast of Maine from a submarine, carried forged identification papers dated ahead to 1946, indicating that the Nazis expect the war to last that long at least, the FBI revealed.

Among forged credentials taken from the spies were classification cards from draft boards. Since draft classifications are altered or renewed periodically, the men carried series of draft cards with forged postmarks dated as far ahead as Feb. 6, 1946.

The spies' equipment also included forged birth certificates, naval discharge papers, $50,000 in cash, a pistol and photographic equipment. The pictures of the certificates showed that Erich Gimpel, German born spy, was to pose as a native of Connecticut. Edward George Green, while William Curtis Cole, was to use the alias William Candwell, but retain his home town of Niantic, Conn. Blank copies of all certificates also were carried by the men, presumably so that they might change names when necessary.

Position Of Russia

Only Wants To Finish War And Live In Peace

Russia wants only to finish the war with the Germans and live in peace with other nations, Mikhail Mikhaliov, Soviet radio commentator, said, answering alleged criticism of Russia and the Red Army by "chatterboxes" in English-speaking countries.

Mikhaliov singled out Clifton Daniel, New York Times London correspondent, as writing that "at the present moment the Soviet Union has less cause than her Allies to wish for the speediest end of the war. As the hostilities draw to a close every big country is becoming uneasy about the strength it will have left."

"The best answer I can give," Mikhaliov said, "is to quote Marshal Josef Stalin that the U.S.S.R. will emerge from the war stronger and more powerful than it was."

"As for the first remark, which I may mention is eagerly echoed by Hanson W. Baldwin (New York Times war analyst), I am going to repeat:

"The U.S.S.R. is the most peaceful country in the world. It always has tried to live in peace with other nations and has done its utmost to finish the war as soon as possible. To this end it has done considerably more than other nations."

"Mr. Daniel's claim has nothing to back it but it does give an inkling of the shady intrigues designed to make mischief among the Allied nations."

"I don't think his leaders will see eye to eye with him. They realize that to end the war quickly the Anglo-Soviet-United States fighting partnership must not be disrupted but consolidated despite the strain sometimes placed on relationships by the long years of war."

Have Time For Birds

Soldiers And Sailors Study Them In Strange Lands

Soldiers slogging in the mud of battlefronts and sailors travelling to strange ports are not too weighed down by their equipment and immediate jobs to forget to look at the birds.

An infantryman in France writes to ask that the Massachusetts Audubon Society send him a bird guide for that country. A Marine who saw action in the Mariana Islands describes a flock of 40 Pacific golden plovers on the beach. And an army lieutenant writes from the Galapagos Islands off the northwestern coast of South America, "I received news of a plane making the rounds of all the major islands on a photographic mission and had the luck to be allowed to go along. . . . As I came in low over one of the islands, a patch of pink caught my eye, and I asked the pilot to go down. We descended to about 100 feet and skimmed in over a marshy piece of ground. Imagine my astonishment and joy to see a flock of about 60 flamingos! We circled the flock about three times, which didn't seem to bother them at all, although we roared right over their heads!"

Busy at war, these men still look with the eyes of peace at the small and quiet things. There are men like them in the ranks of every army. When the battles are over and their war jobs are done, such mutual interests will form quiet but strong bonds among men and women of different nations. Christian Science Monitor.

Have Been Great Help

During War British Women Have Taken Many Unusual Jobs

Thousands of unusual jobs have been undertaken by British women since the start of the war. Tanning chimney sweeping, steepie jacks work, park gardening and brick laying are only five. And it is not only manual work the women of Britain have taken in. There are, for instance, women geographers at the British Admiralty, women meteorologists at the Air Ministry. Women botanists work on the new crops which Britain has had to grow to feed herself while women chemists produce special drugs needed by British, Canadian and Allied fighting men in distant parts of the world.

Soap for liberated Europe about 900 tons of it will be stored in Winnipeg pending shipment overseas. It will be stored in warehouses there by the Canadian Export Board and will come from factories in Vancouver and Edmonton.

An Interesting Test

Will Determine Whether Baked Frozen Foods Will Be Eatable

"Let's defeat an apple pie for dinner," may become a commonplace in the post-war era, thanks to experiments now going on in the College of Home Economics, Syracuse university. Realizing that home freezing probably will be generally used as home equipment, and reeling grandmas' stacks of pies stored in the outdoor pantries, Dr. Ruth Nason began an apple pie testing project last summer.

Three phases of work make up the project: freezing common varieties of apples, freezing unbaked pies and freezing baked pies. The locker full of apple pies and pie apples, will be opened in April, at the end of the second term. Preliminary tests of the results of fast freezing or early apple varieties will take place at the close of the first term in December.

The pie project is the first step in a series of baked goods freezing tests. Pumpkin pies, cakes and cake batters will also be tested. Official judging practices will be used in scoring the defrosted products.

Honey Production

Production This Year May Possibly Exceed That Of 1944

If production of honey in 1945 is about 36,600,000 lb., or approximately the same as in 1944, the Agricultural Supplies Board estimates all essential requirements will be met. Present indications are, however, that production this year may be substantially heavier than last year; that is if the 506,000 colonies of bees in all the provinces give average yields which they didn't last year. If average yields do result the total out-turn of honey will be about 48,560,000 lb.

SCORES OF BRITONS KILLED AND INJURED AS A RESULT OF GERMAN V-BOMB ATTACKS

LONDON.—Scores of Britons were killed in their homes and in the streets, and many others were injured or trapped under debris as a result of German V-bomb attacks on southern England recently.

Nazi radio propagandists said, "Greater London was under fire by day and night." The official British communiqué was routine, however, saying: "There was enemy air activity during the last 24 hours . . . damage and casualties were caused."

One V-bomb struck a house in southern England recently only an hour after the birth of a baby there. The building was demolished and wreckage crashed down upon mother and baby, but both were saved.

These were among the chief incidents disclosed.

A church was smashed when a V-bomb fell in the district. Six bodies were taken from the wreckage and of the number pulled out injured, two subsequently died.

One family of four was killed while they slept. Another family of seven was wiped out when a bomb smashed their house.

A woman was wheeling her baby carriage in the street. A V-bomb fell. The carriage and baby were blown to atoms but the woman escaped with slight injuries.

A bomb flattened a whole row of houses, killing an unestimated number of persons.

One veteran group of rescue workers, as they tunneled toward a mother and daughter trapped in wreckage, heard the two burst into song with "Roll out the barrel."

From one group of wrecked houses, six dead and numerous injured were carried through a 12-foot tunnel. A collapse trapped three firemen who finally were brought out alive but badly injured.

Nineteen-Year-Old Boy Has Served Five Years Overseas

NELSON, B.C.—Although only 19 years old, Gunner James Norman Ackley has been overseas five years and has served through the Sicilian and Italian campaigns.

His brother-in-law, William Handley of Trail, reported that Ackley, formerly of T. field, Alta., was big for his age and that possibly was the reason he was able to get past recruiting officers when he enlisted in 1939. He went overseas with a field battery.

Ackley's parents are dead and he formerly resided in Nelson with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Summer, now of Edmonton.

At present Gunner Ackley is with a Canadian unit in Italy, but Mr. Handley was unable to provide further details.

ATTENDED SERVICE

High Officials Paid Their Last Respects To Admiral Ramsay

ALLIED NAVAL HEADQUARTERS IN EUROPE.—Leading figures of the European war theatre paid their last respects to Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, Allied naval commander-in-chief of the western front, and four other persons who died with him in an air crash January 2.

General Eisenhower, Alfred Duff Cooper, British ambassador to France; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, first sea lord, and Lt.-Gen. Pierre Koenig, military governor of Paris, were among mourners as the coffins draped with the Union Jack were lowered into graves.

They marched in the funeral procession behind a French naval band.

NAZIS FOOLED

Germans Ran Into Complications Dressing In American Uniforms

WITH BRITISH—AMERICAN TROOPS IN BELGIUM.—The Germans ran into complications in dressing some German troops in American uniforms during the first days of their counter-offensive.

One American car patrol was seized by two Germans. But he had heard of enemy troops dressed in United States uniforms, and he spoke excellent German.

In an exasperated voice he declared, "You fools. Let me go. I am a German on a special mission."

The Germans released him, with apologies. The American sought another American to help him, returned and shot one German and captured the other.

SET OFF BOMBS

Collision Between Trucks In England Caused Heavy Explosion

LUTON, England.—Three persons were killed and 17 injured in a blast that devastated the countryside near here when a United States army truck laden with 20 high explosive bombs collided with a civilian truck.

The trucks hardly more than grazed each other at a sharp turn 30 miles west of London but the impact was enough to set the delicate bomb mechanisms to operating, and the blast occurred five minutes after the collision.

Each million cartridges for small arms require about 38,000 pounds of copper.

RUSSIAN AWARD

Presented To Montgomery For Outstanding Work In Invasion Of France

LONDON.—The Order of Suvorov First Class was presented by Soviet Ambassador Fyodor Gusev to Field Marshal Montgomery, for the "outstanding direction of operations in the forcing of the English channel and the invasion of France."

Lord Beaverbrook, lord privy seal, and Oliver Lyttelton, minister of production, received the Order of Suvorov for delivery of supplies to Russia.

Australia was the first nation to make relations between capital and labor a matter for special courts of arbitration.

WOULD DEVELOP A TWO-WAY TRADE BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND THE WESTERN FARMERS

SASKATOON.—Development of Port Churchill and two-way trade between the co-operatives of Great Britain and the similar organizations on the prairies were essential to the future of the western agricultural industry, said Hon. L. F. McIntosh, acting minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, at the 37th annual convention of the Saskatchewan Agricultural Societies Association here.

Not only were large quantities of the output of British co-operative factories saleable now in the west but those factories were ready to cater to production needs here. The co-operatives of Great Britain were willing to give serious consideration to establishing themselves in western Canada, he said. During his recent visit to Scotland and England he had found a ready market for much of Saskatchewan's surplus foodstuffs through these co-operative societies.

The two problems faced today in view of the tremendously increased food production of wartime, were to adequately feed the people of Canada at a standard of living the equivalent of what the majority enjoyed at present, and then to dispose of surplus foodstuffs, said Mr. McIntosh.

"I visualize tremendous potential possibilities in marketing in Great Britain through co-operative channels," he said. "The co-operatives in Saskatchewan can handle the produce here and the organizations with similar principles and objectives offer the market."

Since co-operatives in Great Britain had already contracted for large quantities of foodstuffs from the west, in some cases the entire output of certain commodities those co-operatives were vitally interested in the Hudson Bay route, Mr. McIntosh said. The Scottish co-operatives planned to build three ships after the war and were following all developments at Churchill.

Since wheat would remain king of the agricultural economy, ceiling prices without too great a spread between the two, were necessary, he said.

CANADA IS TAKING STEPS TO MAINTAIN SHIPMENTS OF PORK PRODUCTS TO BRITISH MARKET

OTTAWA.—Canada, which supplies 62 per cent of the British bacon ration of four ounces a person weekly, and which shipped "record quantities" of pork products to Britain last year, is taking steps to maintain the volume and quality of such shipments.

The agriculture department announced that the product of all Grade A hogs and a "considerable part" of Grade B1 hogs turned out by inspected abattoirs will be requisitioned by the Canadian meat board for export to Britain.

However, the percentage of B1 hogs earmarked for export will be varied from time to time to leave approximately normal supplies of pork for distribution in Canada.

The department said meat supplies produced in Australia and New Zealand will be drawn upon "very heavily" to supply forces of the United Nations in the Pacific area, and though supplies from the Argentine will still be substantial the reduced output of North America will mean an over-all meat shortage for Allied countries. A reduction in hog numbers in the United States will be substantially greater than in Canada.

Canada shipped Britain "record quantities" of beef and pork products in 1944, with bacon purchased under the current agreement totalling 696,000,000 pounds, or approximately 5,800,000 hogs compared with shipments aggregating 675,000,000 pounds under the previous contract.

The meat board bought for Britain 132,000 pounds of Canadian beef—the equivalent of about 320 head of cattle—and 1,150,000 pounds of lamb and mutton, or 26,740 head. Neither of these products was shipped to Britain in 1943.

Total value of the 1944 purchases of bacon and pork products for Britain was estimated at $167,100,000, against $151,012,000 in 1943.

Beef purchases were valued at $26,800,000 and lamb purchases at approximately $250,000, making the aggregate value of the purchases last year of meat for the British ministry of food $194,150,000.

INCOME TAX FORMS

Will Likely Be Available For Canadians By January 20

OTTAWA.—Canadians will be able to start figuring out their 1944 income tax late this month. Revenue department officials said income tax forms T1 special and T1 general are expected to be available in most parts of Canada by Jan. 20.

While compulsory savings were dropped last July 1, it will still be necessary for taxpayers to figure their compulsory savings for the first half of last year. The T1 special form is for income under the $3,000 mark, while the T1 general form is for use by taxpayers with more than $3,000 income. Returns must be filed by April 30 and balances due are payable at that time.

TAX PAYMENTS DOWN

OTTAWA.—A decrease of $70,734,158 was reported by Revenue Minister Gibson in income tax and customs and excise collections of $123,878,370 during December, compared with collections of $194,521,528 during December, 1943.

RATION UNCHANGED

In Spite Of Decline In Butter Production During December

OTTAWA.—A decline of nearly 4,000,000 pounds in creamery butter production in December as compared with November will not affect the present butter ration of about six ounces a person weekly, it has been learned. The prices board announced a reduction in the ration from seven ounces to about six in December "to make consumption meet supplies" during the winter months of low production.

The Dominion bureau of statistics reported that creamery butter production in December totalled approximately 12,401,000 pounds, an increase of fewer than 10,000 pounds over December, 1943, and a decline of nearly 4,000,000 pounds from output in November 1944.

The bureau said the situation as compared with November was "somewhat less favorable" and attributed it in part to extremely cold weather during the month.

DOMINION BOTANIST POINTS TO THE MANY BENEFITS ACCRUING BY AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH

OTTAWA.—Practically all Canadian agriculture research projects are "constantly hampered through lack of adequate financial support," Dominion botanist J. H. Craigie said in the latest issue of "Scientific Agriculture."

"Agricultural research is dependent on government support," Dr. Craigie said, "and the support a government can provide for it is in turn, largely dependent on the insistence of the public for such research and on the willingness of the taxpayers to supply funds for it."

In Canada, a large number of research projects in agriculture are now underway, but practically all of them are constantly hampered through lack of adequate financial support," he said.

Dr. Craigie said that every year Canadian taxpayers draw a big dividend on their investment in wheat rust research. The average annual increase of $27,242,000 which Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan farmers have obtained from 1939 to 1943 by growing rust resistant wheats is more than 13 times Canada's total expenditure on developing and introducing this improved grain.

The Dominion botanist said this was evidence of the benefit accruing to the public through agricultural research. He estimated that if the present rust resistant varieties of wheat had been grown in Manitoba in the 16 worst rust years, the yield per acre would have exceeded that obtained from the rust susceptible varieties that were grown in those years by 5.17 bushels.

"In other words," he states, "the average annual loss in wheat production for these 16 years was about 14,123,000 bushels and in farm income, similarly in eastern Saskatchewan there would have been an annual increase in wheat production of 26,878,000 bushels and in farm income of $30,641,000."

Dr. Craigie said the total monetary loss in the rust area of western Canada for the 16 years was about $47,447,000.

Discuss Greek Crisis In Athens

Bishop Demaskinos, archbishop of Athens, is shown (centre) with Anthony Eden and Prime Minister Winston Churchill in Athens as the three attempted to get all the warring factions in Greece to settle their differences around the conference table. Bishop Demaskinos was chairman of the conference. He reported to Churchill and Eden that the establishment of a regency was the desire of all parties as a prelude to the solution of other problems. Church and Eden left Athens to recommend acceptance of a regency to King George of Greece, who is now in London.

Talks About Hockey

Modest like most men who have won rare decorations on the battlefield, Major David Currie, V.C., of Sutherland, Sask., and Moose Jaw, preferred to chat about his early heroes of the old Western Canada Hockey League when he passed through Winnipeg en route to Moose Jaw to spend New Year's with his dad, David Currie, C.P.R. locomotive engineer, and his mother. Shown here with Mrs. Currie and the hero of the Palace Cap is Wm. Manson, general manager of Canadian Pacific Railway western lines. Talking hockey with the railway official who was superintendent at Regina some years back, the tall V.C. told how he used to sneak into rinks to see the Regina Caps, Saskatoon Sheiks and Moose Jaw Maple Leafs perform. "There was really rivalry between Moose Jaw and Regina in those days," he recalled with a grin, "You could always start a fight cheering for Regina in Moose Jaw . . . and vice versa!"

NOTES AND COMMENTS

CO-OPERATION REQUIRED

Within the next two weeks all business houses in the West will be given questionnaire forms to answer in regard to rehabilitation. The provincial government has set up a rehabilitation board to canvass the entire province and has set aside a sum of $2,000,000 with which to carry out rehabilitation work following the war. It is essential that all businessmen take time out to give the questions asked careful consideration for upon their answers will come forth a report from which much profit will be derived both from the standpoint of the province and the businessman.

In addition to the business questionnaire there will be a householders' questionnaire. Coleman's population calls for only twenty-five homes being canvassed with these forms. Here again it is important that care be taken in answering the questions.

A movement is afoot to endeavor to bring factories to the west where material and labor can be obtained instead of centralizing industry in the east as at the present time. The Pass can, if the cards are played properly, probably have a factory set up in this district. Among the leaders of the rehabilitation program in Alberta are men who advocate that factories be decentralized and be taken into the smaller communities where labor and material are available instead of locating them in the larger cities.

WAR STAMP DRIVE IN FEBRUARY

Starting February 10 and continuing through till March, the Food Industry throughout the Dominion will launch its annual winter war savings stamp drive.

The news from the major war fronts this week is most encouraging. Russia is rolling ever nearer Berlin, while the British and Americans are gradually getting the better of the Germans on the Western Front. In Luzon in the Pacific MacArthur appears to be having it much his own way.

One can only imagine the enormous amount of supplies that are being used in these three drives, and there are many more lesser war theatres in addition. The purchase of a twenty-five-cent stamp appears insignificant in the face of the enormous war expenditure. That stamp is only a drop in the bucket. However, if all Canadians purchased several stamps the drops soon become a torrent and many millions of dollars can be realized to the government. Alberta's quota has been set at $188,000. If all Albertans do their bit that amount can be raised in a short time. If Canadians buy stamps in the numbers they should they can help hasten the war's end just a little more.

GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION NEEDED

Many British war brides are now arriving in Canada. Some are to be seen in the pages of Canadian dailies smiling and happy. No doubt a number will go into good homes where they will await the arrival of their soldier husbands. Others will meet with miserable disappointment.

One young bride came out to Brockton, an Indian reserve. One can only visualize her bewilderment when she found out that her husband's home was on a reservation.

There will be many brides coming to Canada whose plight will be pitiful if they are not taken into some organization's care. We would advocate a government agency be set up and whose duty it would be to see that these young girls, thousands of miles from home, are properly taken care of. The government's divorce laws should also receive an overhauling if a number of young lives are not to be ruined.

HOPE FLARES ANEW

Listening to the radio and reading our papers these days of the great Russian and British-American drives on the European east and west fronts, which is narrowing still further the Nazi sphere of influence, our thoughts went back to a few short months ago when the Allies were running roughshod over the Nazis in France and the war was only a matter of a few weeks, we thought. At that time committees were set up to make ready celebration plans for the war's end. No such excitement is apparent among the civilians today. It is still taken for granted that the enemy will put up a titanic struggle before admitting defeat. One thing is certain, however, Germany cannot long continue to absorb these terrific blows without buckling at the knees. Hope constantly flares anew among the Allied Nations.

Letters To The Editor

St. Alban's Rectory, Coleman
Jan. 16th, '45.

The Editor,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman.

Dear Mr. Editor:

At our annual church meeting of St. Alban's congregation held on Jan'y 15th, a very hearty vote of thanks was passed to you for your kindness in publishing our church services and Rector's notes from week to week. We do appreciate it very much and I want also to add a personal word of thanks.

We wish The Coleman Journal every success and may the circulation and power for good grow with each issue.

Sincerely yours,
W. E. Brown.

PLACEMENT OF TECHNICAL EMPLOYEES AFTER DISCHARGE FROM FORCES

Employers who intend to engage an engineer or other technical person discharged from a branch of the armed forces must first obtain a permit from the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel, it was announced Monday by H. W. Lea, associate director of National Selective Service, who is in charge of the bureau.

National Selective Service regulations define a technical person as "one who is a graduate of a recognized university in any branch of engineering or pure science, or is a member of a professional engineering or scientific body."

Technical personnel who have not previously registered with the bureau, must do so following discharge from the forces before the regulations permit them to seek employment. However, having registered, the applicant for a position as a technical person does not require a permit to seek work, although, as already pointed out, the employer must have a permit before he can engage such an applicant.

The bureau is actively engaged in a program to assist in the placement of engineers and science workers who have been discharged from the forces. Applicants may apply either at the head office of the bureau in Ottawa, or at any of the branch offices, which are located at Halifax, Quebec City, Montreal, Kingston, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

RED CROSS SWEATERS APPRECIATED

Coleman Branch,
Canadian Red Cross.

Dear Madam:

I wish to thank you for the sweater and scarf I received through the Canadian Legion from you. I really appreciate it very much and that is the feeling of the rest of the boys here. We are stationed in rather a cold and exposed part of the country, so warm clothing is welcome.

I am from Alberta, so was quite pleased when I found out the sweater came from near home.

I would like to say thanks again to the Red Cross and to the one who spent so many hours work for our comfort.

Gratefully yours,
H. J. McDonald (Overseas).

BUTTERFLIES IN JANUARY

Mr. I. Neilson, of Seventh street, informed The Journal that he caught a butterfly at his home during the week. The recent mild spell would make anyone think spring was here and evidently even the butterflies are being fooled.

What's Ahead For Canada?

We don't know... but we are willing to bet that whatever problems the New Year brings, Canadians will find the answer... Why? Simply because they have always done so. Ever since their ancestors landed among the Indians they've had problems... and... they've had pessimists who told them the country was doomed... just as we have today... but... somehow they found the answer... found it far too often for it to be an accident... that's why we are so confident about Canada's future... that's why we are planning not just for tomorrow but for many years ahead. We have faith in Canada and Canadians.

These dimes work their heads off

No doubt you've seen dimes worn so thin that you can't see the heads on them.

That's what happens when money is really passed around.

That's what happens every year to at least two and a half billion dimes that are put into circulation through the life insurance companies. These dimes really go to work.

They come in the form of premium payments from four million policyholders and if you prefer figuring in folding money, they amount to 250 million dollars.

In peacetime these dimes are not idle. They are kept busy through investment in a great variety of local and national undertakings. For the past five years they have been busy in a strictly military sense—backing up our fighting men with more than a billion dollars' worth of Victory Bonds.

These busy dimes are helping to buy security for you and yours—both in the present and in the future—both at home and abroad.

ABBOTT-COSTELLO RETURN IN NEW UNIVERSAL COMEDY

If you think Abbott and Costello have indulged in slap-stick before, wait till you see them in their first film in over a year—"In Society," the Universal picture which is due Saturday at the Palace theatre, with Arthur Treacher, Marion Hutton, Kirby Grant and Will Osborne and his orchestra.

The boys, who haven't been before the cameras for so long, due to Lou Costello's illness, are said to expend, in their first picture since their return to the studio, more pent-up energy than it would seem possible to have accumulated. "In Society" has them as plumbers who, among other things, parley one little bathroom leak into a gigantic flood that inundates an entire mansion. To escape drowning, the boys climb aboard a bathtub and slide to safety through a bedroom and down a rapids of their own making, said to be nothing other than the grand stairway of the mansion—which should give some indication of the hilarious goings-on in "In Society."

St. Alban's Church Held Annual Meeting

Finances in Improved Condition; Ladies' Guild Congratulated on Fine Work During Past Year.

The annual church meeting of St. Alban's congregation was held in the parish hall Monday, Jan. 15, at 8 p.m., with the Rector, Rev. W. E. Brown, presiding. The chairman opened the meeting with prayer and then gave a report of church activities for the past year. First, the hope was expressed we would soon have peace and our boys be home with us again. The church had suffered a great loss in the death of Archbishop Temple, who was a great leader, brilliant scholar, and man of God. We pray his successor, Bishop Fisher of London, may be richly endowed for his high office. In our own Diocese much progress had been made, many new priests had taken up work. We had contributed to the "Thanksgiving for Victory" campaign, which now totals over $30,000.

We have 77 families connected with St. Alban's church, with 213 members. There had been 114 services taken in St. Alban's during 1944, of which the present Rector had taken 94. There had been 12 baptisms, two weddings, and two funerals, and 385 visits made to homes.

The people's warden, Mr. F. H. Graham, presented a splendid financial report. There had been a substantial increase in offerings over 1943, with all bills paid and a balance on the right side. This is a striking indication of the ready support given by the congregation to the carrying on of the church's work.

Mrs. Cornett presented the report of St. Alban's Guild. Here again it was a banner year financially, and the Guild is to be congratulated on the amount raised, their substantial balance and their achievements. To mention a few—hardwood floors in the Rectory, paying the pension fund and part of the assessment, hymn books for the choir, etc. Congratulation and thanks, St. Alban's Guild. We regret the president, Mrs. James Kellock, is indisposed and we pray for her a speedy recovery to health.

Mrs. W. E. Brown presented the Sunday school report. The attendance has gone up one hundred per cent and the offerings are good. We regret to lose the services of Mrs. N. Laitwaite, who will soon be leaving the parish, and wish her well. The Sunday school is the vineyard of the church, so let us be keen on the spiritual welfare of our children.

The Rector expressed appreciation and thanks to the members of our senior choir for their loyalty and help, and said Mrs. Brown was now busy training a junior choir.

The following church members have gone from the parish during 1944: Mrs. Michael Joyce to Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Moores to Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. E. X. Hill to Victoria, Mr. Howard Davies and family to Calgary. In each case they have been commended to the Rector of their new parish, and we wish them God's richest blessing in their new homes.

We welcome to the parish Mr. John Townsend and family. From Taber Mrs. Doreen Quaise and her two children, living in West Coleman.

1945 will be the fortieth anniversary of St. Alban's church and arrangements were talked of to mark it in a fitting manner. Our objective is: St. Alban's well kept and beautifully furnished, a full choir and congregation, and that people will take knowledge of us that we have been with God.

Hearty votes of thanks were passed by acclamation to the Rector for his most encouraging report, wardens F. H. Graham and W. T. Pettifor, organists Donald Graham and Mrs. W. E. Brown, members of the choir, Sunday school teachers, St. Alban's Guild, Mrs. Harold Turner, who cared for the altar, Mrs. William Martland, who looks after the church and hall, to the Editor of The Coleman Journal, who so kindly publishes free our church services and Rector's notes.

The Rector presented Mr. W. T. Pettifor with his lay-reader license and expressed thanks personally and on our Bishop's behalf for his services as lay-reader.

The following were elected to office: Rector's warden, W. T. Pettifor; people's warden, F. H. Graham; vestrymen, Messrs. S. C. Short, Harold Houghton, W. L.

Borrows and George Derbyshire; envelope secretary, Mrs. Arthur Jones; delegates to Synod, F. H. Graham and W. T. Pettifor.

Finally, with the good hand of our God upon us we can advance; with His help we will advance and we shall be limited and praised.

Thus a most helpful and inspiring meeting closed with benediction by the Rector.—Contributed.

Skates And Boots Wanted

An urgent appeal for unused skates and boots for the use of members of Canada's fighting forces overseas has been issued by military authorities.

An appeal was made some time ago, according to a report from YMCA headquarters, which is in charge of collections, the response to date has been most disappointing.

Skates and boots are needed so that the troops overseas may engage in skating and hockey as recreation.

Anyone having skates or boots not in use, which they wish to donate for use of the troops, should forward them to the nearest YMCA office or to the Auxiliary Office, Military District 13, Calgary. Arrangements have been made to send all donations overseas promptly.

Cigarette Fund Notes

Dear Sirs: To you and all the Coleman people my best regards. Received 600 Winchester cigarettes. Thanks a million. Hope to be home next Xmas.—Ugo DeCocco.

Dear Friends: Just received 300 cigarettes today and can certainly say they are appreciated. We are enjoying nice weather at present. Trust everyone is fine and happy. A good Christmas and New Year to you all.—Herman Hirsch.

Dear Sirs: Received 900 cigarettes this week. Just got back from a week's leave in London and Sheffield. Had a very good time. Met Raymond Destobel and it was sure good to see him. My many thanks to the cigarette club and the people of Coleman.—W. J. Graham.

Dear Sirs: I wish to thank you all for the gift of cigarettes I received a week ago. They arrived in perfect condition as usual, for which I am very thankful. I would appreciate it very much if you would convey my thanks to the Miners' Union for the cigarettes they sent.

It is very nice, when a person is far from home, to know that the people there are thinking of him or her, as the case may be. Receiving letters from people we know, or hearing about people we know, helps to keep us in touch with what is happening at home. The more I receive the more I like it, and always do my best to answer them as soon as is possible.

I also received a parcel from the Ladies Auxiliary, and would be grateful if you would let them know that it arrived safely and in very good condition. I have received a few other parcels, but the bulk of them haven't arrived yet.

I wish to thank the Overseas Welfare Fund for the way they have kept me supplied with cigarettes during the past year. Very few months went by during which I did not receive a carton from them. It is very comforting, when cigarettes are running low, to know that there will soon be some more arriving, and I have yet to be disappointed.

Christmas is very near, as is New Year's, but even though the letter arrives late, I wish you all a Very Happy New Year, and may it see the end of this terrible mess.—Alfred Jones.

WHEN I'M GROWN UP

I've really no patience with grown-ups,
They're all so conceited and slow,
You'd never believe that my dad
Was once curly headed Joe.
They never play marbles or leap frog,
They don't care for taffee or toys,
And when we play soldiers, they tell us,
You children make far too much noise.
They ought to be awfully jolly,
Just think they can do what they please.
There's no one to plague them with lessons,
And ask them, Now what's eight threes?
They don't go to school every morning,
And sit without saying a word;
And I've never heard anyone tell them
That they should be seen and not heard.
I've made up my mind, when I'm grown up,
And there's no one to grumble or blame,
To have such grand times, that the neighbors
Will all want to do just the same.
I'll not spend my money on porridge,
I've far too much sense as you'll see,
I'll always have chicken for dinner,
And wieners and onions for tea.
I'll not wear a hat like my father's,
But a helmet that shines in the sun,
And I don't mean to ride to my work, either,
I'll just bowl my hoop as I run.
I won't go to bed until midnight,
And sometimes I won't go at all.
But I'll slide down the stairs on a tea tray,
And let fireworks off in the hall.
Suppose they expect me to marry,
I won't have a stiff grown-up wife,
Rosie Brown can knit reins very nicely
And I've known her the whole of my life.
I've plenty more plans for the future,
In fact you have only heard half;
But please don't tell the grown-ups
For I know what they are—and they'll laugh.

Sleeping Sickness

Vaccine Used For Horses, May Not Be As Effective In Man

The virus disease of horses, Encephalomyelitis or sleeping sickness, has also infected man, producing in him a serious and often fatal illness. In horses, the disease has been proved to be controllable by a specific vaccine, and, incidentally, the application of this vaccine eliminates the greater part of the economic loss caused by the disease. In regions where the disease appears, it is important to know whether a vaccine similar to that prepared for horses will also protect man. A co-operative study by the Division of Animal Pathology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and the Manitoba Department of Health has shown that the response to the vaccine in man is not as regular as in horses, and certain substances which are formed in the blood of horses are not produced with equal facility in man. Nevertheless, states the Annual Report of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, it would seem that the vaccine is such that it will give persons in infected regions a reasonable degree of protection, and perhaps an absolute immunity.

New Railway Appointments

GORDON M. HUTT

Widely known in Western Canada, where he has been assistant development commissioner of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Gordon M. Hutt, formerly of Winnipeg, has taken up his new post in Montreal where at January 1st he succeeded G. G. Ommann, retired, as the railway's development commissioner for the system.

Mr. Hutt's appointment, announced by C. E. Jefferson, freight traffic manager, recognizes his 20 years of outstanding service in the field of development, particularly in regard to industrial clays of Western Canada in which Mr. Hutt is a recognized expert.

Sen. of R. Hutt, retired chief engineer of the T. Eaton Company in Winnipeg, Gordon Hutt is a bachelor of science in geology and chemistry.

W. G. COWIE

of the University of Manitoba, and a Master of Science from McGill. He has lectured widely and contributed many papers on his specialties, industrial minerals and clays, and is a dominion councillor of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

To succeed Mr. Hutt as assistant development commissioner for western lines at Winnipeg, H. W. Gillis, assistant freight traffic manager, western lines, announced appointment of W. G. Cowie, formerly development engineer at Montreal. Mr. Cowie, born in London, Ont., is a graduate in honor chemistry from the University of Western Ontario in that city. Mr. Cowie was with Beatty Brothers at Fergus, Ontario, and with the Toronto sales branch of the Canadian Johns Manville before joining the Canadian Pacific as a development engineer.

No One Any Better

Field Marshal Montgomery In Front Rank As An Attacker

Some of the American commentators are critical of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, claiming he is all right as a defensive fighter, but not so hot on the attack. How short must be the memories of those commentators. It is only two years since the British had their backs to the wall in Egypt. The Germans were threatening to go right through to Cairo and the Suez Canal.

The then General Montgomery took command of the British Eighth Army. One of the first things he did was to order the troops to stop digging defensive trenches and emplacements. He informed his men that instead of defending, they were going to attack. Then General, now Field Marshal, Sir Harold Alexander and General Montgomery launched their historic drive that pushed the Germans right across North Africa and into the sea at Tunisia. When the inexperienced Americans in North Africa were having trouble, General Montgomery stiffened them and gave force to their drive as well as to the British assault. From Africa General Montgomery went to Sicily and pushed the Italians out of there and then drove into Italy.

If General Montgomery and the British Eighth Army did not convince the world that they were the hottest thing on the attack in history, we don't know how anyone could prove a case. Montgomery no good on the attack? Ask the Nazis.—W. L. Clark in Windsor Star.

Not All Ancient

Many People Have Wrong Idea About City of London

The City section of London, heart of the Empire, has a reputation for antiquity. That's why remarks made by F. J. Forty, city engineer, came as something of a surprise, even to Londoners.

"People are apt to think," he said, "that London is a city composed of very ancient buildings. That is not so. But we have a number of precious heirlooms of which we are zealous custodians."

"Between 1905 and 1935 a quarter of the city was rebuilt with a taxable value of $4,000,000" ($18,000,000).

Mr. Forty was giving The London Society an outline of proposals for reconstruction of the city, one-quarter destroyed by enemy action in this war. He was emphasizing that the new as well as the old had to be taken into consideration.

For Seamen's Needs

Charts Famous For Their Accuracy Are Issued Every Year

Admiralty charts are published with a view to meeting the needs of seamen all over the world. For generations these charts have been famous for their accuracy. Some are based on surveys of fifty years ago, but are revised continually. Navigational dangers the promulgation of which is urgent, such as sunken wrecks, changes in the position of a minefield or buoy, are notified to all chart users by the daily issue of Admiralty Notices to Mariners available at any shipping office. The work is immensely responsible, because it is on these charts the navigating officers of any ship relies. During this war the Department has compiled charts for all the various amphibious operations. Bigger ships are supplied with as many as 1,500 to 2,000 charts, and for the invasion of Sicily tons of charts were supplied to the 3,000 odd vessels taking part. Small-scale ocean charts are also printed for all ships' lifeboats. These are on waterproof paper and wrapped in oilskin. The Admiralty has supplied charts to all U.S. warships and every craft engaged in D-day operations. These charts numbered nearly 150,000.

The British Admiralty's Hydrographic Department dates back to 1785, and was established by an Earl Spencer, the Royal Navy's first hydrographer being Alexander Dalrymple, who was in the East India Company's service. In 1808 he was succeeded by Captain Thomas Hurd, R.N., and since then this post has always been held by officers of the Royal Navy, states a London columnist in the Ottawa Journal. Few if any reliable charts had been published in England before the first of Captain Cook's voyages in 1768-71. Before this war the British Admiralty charts were more widely used than any other. All the Scandinavian countries, Russia, Germany, Italy, and Japan used British charts except for their own coastal waters, and America used some 800 British charts. Today the Hydrographic Department sends out nearly a thousand and issues and keeps correct some 4,000 navigation charts covering all the oceans and coasts of the world. The present output is over five million charts a year, and the department's store of charts and maps, probably the largest in the world, totals about a quarter of a million, among them some nearly 300 years old.

Families From Sudetenland Make Good In The West

In 1939 about 150 refugee families from Sudetenland, seeking a haven in a land that was free from the domination of Nazi Germany, arrived in Canada and were settled on a block of land at Tupper Creek, 27 miles from Dawson Creek and close to the Alberta boundary.

Today these immigrants are substantial Canadian citizens. They have paid for their farms, they have neat, well-built homes and farm buildings, and they have ample equipment for plowing, cultivating and seeding the soil.

Britain To Suppress The Black Markets In Food

The London Daily Mail said that Sir Charles Taggart, dope gang buster and former Middle East police chief, famous for his suppression of terrorism in Palestine and India, has undertaken a great new drive against Britain's black market in food.

Sir Charles has been given a staff of former Army officers whose names are secret. All are intelligence experts and their main task is to uncover the men and their nation-wide organization.

The newspaper said that black marketing in Britain "has assumed the proportions of a national scandal in spite of the most intense police activity and numerous prosecutions."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"LIGHT"

— By —
ALICE M. SNOW

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Let there be light: and there was light." The young minister leaned forward in the pulpit and his gray eyes behind the shield of his glasses were deeply earnest. "I say—"

A murmur rippled through the church. Martha Barnes, who was sitting in a back pew beside her husband, Ezra, had been watching the raply pretty face of Nancy Barnes, three seats ahead. Now she looked up, sharply aware of unrest in the congregation. Three dozen pairs of eyes were turned to the west, whence came the shout of many voices.

Martha rifled the pages of her hymn book, and the crisp lace jabot on her breast fluttered gently. He wasn't getting over at all. Brad Hunter, her nephew, deserved better than this. The boy was clever. He was sincere. But a minister, no matter how good, she thought scornfully, couldn't compete with a horse race.

For the past month, the Barnes stables just on the edge of town had drawn as if by a magnet, ninety-five per cent. of Honey Hollow. Tom Barnes should be flattered. Martha's lips compressed and her fingers tightened as if she herself held the whip. It would feel good, good, she thought fiercely but such thoughts were unchristian. Her mouth softened as she looked again at Nancy. The father of such a girl must have some good in him.

The organ had just begun the throbbing notes of the anthem when the fire siren shrieked above the music.

"Fire! It's the stables! Let's get out—"

Feet stamped in the aisles. Martha sat bolt upright and put a restraining hand on Ezra. "No you don't, Ezra Terrell. At least two of us will stand by the minister. Look at him! Isn't he the picture of defeat? Brad Hunter, come down here this minute!"

"You see I'm no good, Aunt Martha. I can't hold them." Brad came doctored down the aisle.

"Can't hold them? And who could with such goings on?" Her corkscrew curls jiggled and her generous bosom heaved. "But haven't you any girl? You Yankee born and bred. Where's that good old perseverance?"

"One thing I can't do, and that is preach to empty benches." Brad flung out his hands wearily. "I've tried and tried."

"So you're going to give up?" Martha drew her shawl about her and fastened the ruby brooch with a trembling hand. "Come, Ezra." At the church door she turned for a parting word. "There is a saying that if the mountain won't come to you, you go to the mountain."

"You mean, you mean—?" Brad's face lighted, questioning.

"Certainly I do, if you've an ounce of sense if you've any of that old hell-fire and brimstone your grandfather had. We're going to the fire. Maybe we'll see you there."

The Barnes stables were pillars of flame. Five hundred people shouted and milled around the big lot. At the edge of the crowd Martha held tightly to Ezra.

"They got the horses out," someone said. "There isn't a thing they can do about the barns. They are dry as tinder. Look at 'em go!"

"What started it?" Martha turned to a fat man who alternately wiped his face and yelled.

"Somebody smoking. Gosh! I haven't seen such a crowd since the broken down circus."

"Keep still," came a shout. "Someone is going to make an announcement. See him on the roof of the car right in the glare?"

Martha's sad eyes glowed. "It's Brad—he's going to preach why don't they quiet down?"

Brad was ringing a large bell with a wild sweep of his arm. Voices stilled. People pressed nearer.

"Friends, this may not be exactly the place for a sermon, but you walked out of my church and I followed. Will you let me give the message I had prepared?"

As one person the crowd shouted "Aye!" This was something different. This might be good. Whoever heard of a sermon at a fire? But the boy's voice had a ringing quality. Standing by the blazing tower, he looked strange, eerie.

"Let there be light: and there was light."

For fifteen minutes Brad swayed his audience, and then a chorus of voices broke into song. There was no organ—only the snapping of flames. At the end Tom Barnes leaped up beside the clergyman.

"Folks, that was the finest thing I ever saw. I want you to know there'll be no more racing on Sunday." He put his hand on Brad's shoulder. "Here, my friends, is what I call a minister!"

Jogging home, Martha sighed contentedly. Her hair was askew and her face streaked with soot, but she was happy.

"Wasn't it beautiful, Ezra? Brad standing there with the fire rushing up beside him, the music and the people—how they loved it! He'll have no trouble filling the church now. I do wish his grandfather could have seen him. There's just one thing," she went on soberly, "I hope the Lord won't mind the way it all happened."

Mild Ezra was following his own train of thought. "Speaking of light, did you notice Nancy Barnes' eyes?" "It will be right nice having real Christians like Tom and Nancy in the family," Martha answered proudly.

Scholarship Results

Announcement Is Made Of Winners Of Annual Event For Composers

The Canadian Performing Right Society has just announced its annual scholarship competition for Canadian composers of matured musical talent. The five winners include a Canadian soldier with the army overseas and an airman training in Canada.

The airman, Robert Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fleming, Saskatoon, a previous winner in other competitions sponsored by the society was brought to his feet four times last year by an audience in Massey Hall, Toronto, after the Toronto Symphony orchestra under Sir Ernest MacMillan played his Nursery Suite, which was one of the prize-winning works.

The soldier, Bandsman James M. Gayer of Toronto, now overseas, and John Maurice Lowe of White Rock, B.C., another winner, are both hitherto comparatively unknown as composers.

The "discovery" of new composers by the society actually enables more people to draw a share of the copy right fees, when their compositions are played commercially.

Young Canadians who wish to take advantage of the scholarships and other prizes offered in the contest for young composers should write for application forms to the Canadian Performing Right Society, Royal Bank Building, Toronto.

Something To Know

That Once Thawed Frozen Foods Lose Their Vitamins Quickly

Fresh frozen foods are a luxury of recent years. They may be commonplace after the war, but right now they're a treat in anybody's family. Those delectable looking strawberries or peas or brussels sprouts are extra good as food value too. For fast freezing methods seem to seal in the vitamins and minerals.

A serving of strawberries, for example will contribute about one-third of the daily amount of vitamin C needed for good health the nutrition division reports.

But there's a point to watch: once thawed these fruits and vegetables lose their vitamins much more quickly than do the ordinary varieties. For this reason the vegetables should be cooked while they are still frozen and fruits not allowed to thaw until just before they are going to be used.

Kept Them Safe

Coal Mine In German Town Sheltered Herd Of Cows

War accounts for many strange circumstances, and one of them is the fact that in the German town of Aisdorf, recently occupied by American troops, the town has been getting its milk supply from a herd of 25 Holstein cows 1,200 feet under the ground.

Coal mining has always been the chief industry of Aisdorf, but right now the chief products of its largest mine are fresh milk, veal, pork and mutton.

The cows, pigs and sheep were taken underground by the people of the town last September, to protect them from artillery fire and bombs, as well as from other Germans who wanted them. The town is still under occasional shell-fire, but the animals remain safe and sound underground.

The American commanding officer a Boston lawyer, asked the Germans at Aisdorf why there were no chickens in the underground barnyard.

The answer told the story. The chickens were so easy to carry the Nazi troops took them all with them when they fled before the American invasion.

Rare Metal

Glass-Making Element Is Now Produced At Flin Flon

Thallium, a rare soft white metallic element used in alloys and glass-making, now is being produced at Flin Flon, Man., the Dominion bureau of statistics reported in its review of mineral production in Canada in 1944.

About 128 pounds of the metal never before produced in Canada were turned out by the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, Limited, at Flin Flon. Value of the metal produced was set at $1,690.

The bureau also reported that experimental shipments of ore containing tantalum, a rare metal used for incandescent filament in electric lamps, were made from the northwest territories in 1944.

Kept It With Him

For Years Man Carried Fortune Around In Paper Sack

For 10 years Henry W. Shindollar, a former school teacher and oil operator, of Portland, Indiana, carried a brown paper sack along with him, always giving the impression he had his lunch in it. When he became fatally ill recently, he turned the bag over to a local banker, Lewis Hoover, who found $22,500 in currency in it. The bills were all $500 and $1,000 ones, each carefully wrapped. The will inside the sack said all the money was to go to charity.

Can Never Relax

Britain's Royal Observer Corps Must Work Under Rigorous Conditions

Two thousand five hundred members of Royal Observer Corps in Britain are women, who must possess great powers of endurance. While on duty they can never relax. Conditions are rigorous. For observer posts, for reasons of efficiency, must be situated in isolated, exposed and often outlandish spots—on hill or headland, on top of a church tower, or even in one case on top of a tree. They must be manned every minute of the day and night in every type of weather. The work calls for a high degree of courage. When an enemy fighter is diving at a post with machine guns and cannon in action the observer continues to report its course to the R.O.C. centre. Even when he sees bombs descending towards his post he does not seek shelter.

SELECTED RECIPES

SWEET- SOUR BEEF

4 pounds beef chuck, shoulder, rump or round
2 cups vinegar
2 cups water
1 teaspoon whole black peppers
3 bay leaves
3 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon salt

Remove excess fat from meat and reserve. Soak meat 8 hours or overnight in vinegar and water to which peppers and bay leaves have been added. Turn meat once during soaking. Drain very well, saving liquid. Heat fat from meat in heavy kettle. Add meat and brown on all sides. Add salt and 1 1/2 cups of the reserved liquid. Cover and cook slowly 2 to 2 1/2 hours or until tender, adding more liquid during cooking if necessary. Remove meat and serve with gravy and potato dumplings. Eight to ten servings.

To Make Gravy— Measure liquid in kettle. For 2 cups of liquid allow:
4 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
Mix flour, sugar, salt and ginger with a little cold water to make a smooth paste. Add to liquid in kettle and stir constantly until gravy thickens. Boil 3 to 5 minutes.

POTATO DUMPLINGS

2 slices of bread
2 tablespoons mild-flavored fat
2 eggs
4 cups mashed or diced potatoes
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/2 cup flour
Remove crusts from bread and cut into small cubes; lightly brown in hot fat. Beat eggs well. Combine with potatoes, salt, parsley and flour. Mix thoroughly and allow to stand 1 hour. Shape into balls and drop into large saucepan of boiling salted water. Boil uncovered 15 minutes. Make 8 to 10 dumplings.

INTERESTING TEST

A fire lighted in a steel rubbish can, placed two feet above the top, while flames from the same type of fire in a wooden barrel jumped nine feet, in a recent test.

A GROWING INDUSTRY

The Brockville Recorder and Times says: Of the 682 million pounds of tobacco used by the Canadian industry last year, 66.9 million pounds were grown in this country. That indicates very pronounced progress for our home-grown tobacco, which used to be considered anything but suited to ordinary consumption.

Blaimore Branch Canadian Legion Elects Officers

Ben Hobson Re-Elected to Presidency; Finances in Good Shape.

At a well attended meeting of Blaimore Branch No. 7, of the Canadian Legion, held Wednesday evening, Jan. 10, the following officers were elected to office for 1945:

President, Ben Hobson, re-elected; vice-president, R. W. Harold Pickney, re-elected; executive, S. G. Bannan, re-elected; Jack Davies, J. R. MacLeod and Joe (Jo-Jo) Zak.

Mr. J. R. MacLeod is the new customs officer, succeeding Mr. Frank Freeman, who has been transferred to Nelson, and has just recently returned home to Lethbridge from overseas after seeing service in Sicily and Italy.

Joe Zak is a Blaimore boy, going through Blaimore schools. "Jo-Jo" saw service with the Loyal Edmonton Regiment and was severely wounded in Sicily, necessitating the amputation of a leg.

Wm. Chappel, auditor, presented the yearly report, which showed Blaimore branch to be in a very healthy financial condition and the year 1944 one of the best since the branch was founded.

In Memoriam

TOPTANO—In Loving Memory of our dear ones, who passed away on Jan. 19, 1943.

I cannot say and I will not say
That she is dead—she is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand

She has wandered into an unknown
land
And left us dreaming, how very fair

It needs must be, since she lingers
there.

Think of her faring on, as dear in the Love of There

As the Love of Here.

Think of her still as the same,
I say,

She is not dead, she is just away.
Sadly missed by Angela, Mary,
Norma, Mother and Dad, sisters and brother.
